Transforming Education Summit convened by the United Nations Secretary-General

19 September 2022 – Leaders Day
16-17 September 2022 – Mobilization and Solutions Days

Information Note

(Updated 5 September 2022)

I. About the Summit

Recognizing that education is a human right and a foundation for peace, tolerance, other human rights and sustainable development, the United Nations (UN) Secretary-General is convening world leaders for a Transforming Education Summit (TES) as a key milestone in the advancement of Our Common Agenda¹. The Summit will include a youth-led Mobilization Day on Friday, 16 September, a Summit Solutions Day on Saturday, 17 September, in which ministerial-participation is encouraged. The Head of State and Government level Summit Leaders Day will be held on Monday 19 September 2022.

The Summit is being convened in response to a global crisis in education – one of equity and inclusion, quality and relevance. Often slow and unseen, this crisis is having a devastating impact on the futures of children and youth worldwide with progress towards the education-related Sustainable Development Goals badly off track. If unaddressed, its negative impacts on our collective pursuit of peace, justice, human rights and sustainable development will be felt for decades to come.

Preparatory process

Building on the seminal report from the UNESCO International Commission on the Futures of Education, which was chaired by Ms. Sahle-work Zewde, President of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia,² and the lessons from the COVID-19 Pandemic, a focused, intensive, and inclusive preparatory process has been undertaken in 2022:

- National consultations have been advanced in over 100 countries to develop a shared vision, commitment and alignment of action across constituencies to transform education.
- Thematic Action Tracks have been convened at the global level to place a spotlight on the areas that require greater attention and action: (1) Inclusive, equitable, safe and healthy schools; (2) Teachers, teaching and the teaching profession; (3) Learning and skills for life, work and sustainable development; (4) Digital learning and transformation; and (5) Financing of education.
- Public engagement and mobilization efforts have sought to democratize dialogue around education and to grow a global movement for education transformation.

A Pre-Summit, held at UNESCO HQ in Paris from 28 to 30 June 2022, provided an inclusive forum for countries to present preliminary outcomes of national consultations and engage in discussions of key recommendations from the Summit Action Tracks. The meeting generated significant momentum with the participation of more than 1,800 persons, including 154 Ministers of Education and Vice-Ministers and two Heads of State. It clearly indicated, however, that more work was needed to have localized and deeper conversations on the country-specific transformations

Objectives and expected outcomes

The Summit provides a unique opportunity to elevate education to the top of the global political agenda and to mobilize action, ambition, solidarity and solutions to recover pandemic-related learning losses and sow the seeds to transform education in a rapidly changing world.

Building on the Summit preparations, the main expected outcomes of the September Summit are:

- 1) National and international commitments to transform education;
- 2) Greater public engagement around and support for transforming education; and
- 3) A Vision Statement on Transforming Education from the Secretary-General.

The Secretary-General's Vision Statement will be formally submitted as an input to intergovernmental negotiations on the future of education as part of the preparations for the proposed UN Summit of the Future. It will also inform the work of the SDG4-Education 2030 High-Level Steering Committee in order to ensure effective follow-up at all levels.

II. Programme Overview

16 September: TES Mobilization Day

The TES Mobilization Day will be youth-led and youth-organized and will involve the full participation of a wide range of stakeholders. It will serve to convey the collective recommendations of youth on transforming education to decision and policymakers, informed by the Summit Youth Declaration. The Youth Declaration is being developed through a global consultative process facilitated by the Office of the Secretary-General's Envoy on Youth together with the Summit Secretariat hosted by UNESCO and a number of partners that gathered young people's inputs. This Day will also focus on mobilizing the global public, youth, teachers, civil society and others to support the transformation of education across the world.

Ministers and high-level Member State delegations will be invited to engage in all sessions planned throughout the TES Mobilization Day. The Mobilization Day will take place in Conference Room 4 at the UN conference building. Please check the TES website for the full programme of the Mobilization Day.

17 September: TES Solutions Day

The TES Solutions Day will provide a platform for partners to mobilize support to launch or scale up initiatives connected to the Summit Thematic Action Tracks. Coalitions for action or other multi-stakeholder initiatives that will contribute to transforming education will be presented. The Day will evolve around 50 concurrent sessions, which were selected following a call for proposals process organized by the TES Secretariat. The call for proposals process invited Member States, UN agencies and a wide range of international organizations and agencies, civil society organizations, networks, foundations, alliances, the private sector and other initiatives to participate.

Ministers and policymakers of education and relevant sectors, as well as other stakeholders such as young people, representatives of civil society, the private sector, academia, are welcome to take part in any event organized during the TES Solutions Day. The plenary session for the opening and closing will take place in Conference Room 4. The concurrent sessions will take place in various meeting rooms in the UN conference building. Please visit the TES website for the full programme of the Solutions Day.

19 September: TES Leaders Day

The TES Leaders Day will include 6 Leaders Roundtable for the presentation of National Statements of Commitment by Heads of State and Government.

The Day will also include six concurrent “Spotlight” sessions that focus on cross-cutting priorities for transforming education and for mobilizing high-level political support for action. The six Spotlight sessions will feature the following themes: (1) Education in crisis situation; (2) Foundational learning; (3) Education for sustainable development; (4) Digital learning; (5) Gender equality in education; and (6) Education finance.

The Leaders Day will also feature the presentation of the Summit Youth Declaration and the Secretary-General’s Vision Statement for Transforming Education.
